MANY BURGLARIES REPORTED FRIDAY

Police Exerting Every Effort to Capture Thieves Who Have Secured Over $1,000 Worth of Jewelry.

The police and city detectives were exerting themselves Friday in an effort to solve eight daring burglaries committed Friday and Thursday night. In these eight burglaries over $1,000 of jewelry was stolen and many homes on the north side of the city were pillaged. No arrests had been made up to a late hour last night. The residence of J. E. Todd, of 262 Greenwood avenue, Druid Hills, was burglarized Friday morning before daylight and a gold watch and 29 cents secured as loot.

In the same neighborhood a burglar entered another residence, that of Rev. L. E. Barton, of 219 St. Charles avenue, and several dollars were stolen. This burglary also happened early Friday morning.

These Were Hungry Thieves. A grocery store at 133 Rockwell street was broken into before daylight Friday and twenty-six dollars and a large quantity of meat stolen.

Mrs. E. M. Biggers, of 348 Glenn street, returned to her residence last night to discover that a burglar had been unloading during her absence. Upon investigating she found that the man who had been in her house had taken a sack of flour, a bucket of oil and a quantity of butter and coffee were missing. Officers Shumate and McDuffie answered her call for police, but the thief had made good his escape several hours before their arrival.

J. N. Hirsch, of 40 West Eleventh street, reported to the police that Thursday night a burglar broke into his automobile garage and stole two cars and a large quantity of property.

W. T. Coughlin, of 185 Juniper street, had stolen from her residence a beautiful diamond ring, engraved "Charles to Nell." A large quantity of clothing was also taken by the thief.

In the glare of the all-night lights of the Candler building and several streets are lighted during the night. The front door of the Pickard-Deane drug store, 124 Peachtree street, Particular pains were taken by the robber to secure every penny in the store. There were three cash registers—the soda, the cigar and the drug cash registers. All were broken open and the money taken out. The doorkeeper secured about $5 for all his trouble.

This Was Richest Haul. The richest haul was secured from the apartment of Ewell Gay, in the Framer apartments, No. 7 East Seventh street, where $900 worth of jewelry was stolen.

The list of stolen jewelry from the Gay apartments includes a diamond ring set with two aquamarines and one large pearl and surrounded by a magnificent diamond setting.

Still Seeking Jury To Fix The Value Of One Lone Hog

What sort of a jury can best judge the value of a hog? That problem is confronting the defense—likewise the plaintiff—in the famous suit against the Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific railroad by J. D. L. Bellow for $20,000 damages for the loss of "Premier Longfellow's" rival, a prize Berkshire porker.

The first jury, in 1911, brought in a verdict for $10,000, but an appeal was made for new trial. The new trial was granted, and is now in progress in superior court.

white tenant in it if the negro on the one side objected, nor could he place a negro tenant in the house if the white man on the other side objected. Neither could he dispose of his property to one who could either occupy or rent the house under these conditions.

Justice Atkinson, "an owner of property could, by mere force of the ordinance and caprice of an arbitrary property owner, without any compensation or process of law, be deprived for all time of the right to reside on his property, or substitute tenant of his choice to do so."

Such a condition, he declares, is opposed to the guaranty as embodied in the due process clause of the state and federal constitutions.

Justice Lumpkin, concurring specially, said:

"I concur in the result reached, but not in all that is said in the opinion of Mr. Justice Atkinson. It seems to me that the discussion in regard to the right to use property as an incident to ownership may lead to extreme results. The right of an owner to use his property is important, but it is not so absolute as that he may at all times and under all circumstances use it as he pleases regardless of the public welfare, morals or safety."

Justice Lumpkin points out that the law makes many restrictions upon the use of property by its owner, such as 44 feet for the construction of wooden buildings.

"The right to contract," he says, "has been treated as a part of the liberty of a citizen, and yet it is subject to certain limitations for the public good."

Justice Lumpkin also touched upon segregation of race as accomplished in street cars, railroad coaches and schools, where race is the basis of classification.

"I cannot subscribe," he continues, "to the apparent idea that classification has nothing to do with such laws. Classification as to race is a legitimate use of property in the past, and it may be an important element in considering laws of this character."

His opinion continues:

"In the present case, the petition does not distinctly make the point that the general welfare clause in a city charter, which authorized the ordinance of segregation, ordinance, or even in terms that the ordinance under consideration was unreasonable. It does, however, charge that the ordinance delegated to individuals the right to say who the plaintiffs should use their property. I think that this ground is well taken. If the residence of these two races in close proximity was a matter requiring regulation, the legislative body should determine the fact, and not leave it to the whim of a single resident, and subject to shift from time to time according to the whims of the majority."

The near approach of the end of the term, and the rush of business incident thereto, which requires that all cases shall be decided at the first or second term, prevents a more thorough discussion of the subject. I agree with the majority of the court that the particular order here involved is unconstitutional and void. But I think the line of reasoning adopted by them may carry them too far."
